TAKES CASE TO
SUPREME COURT.Attorney Higbee Will Endeavor to Have a Hearing
Before Election

WAITING FOR A TELEGRAM

Which is Expected to Set the Date for An Argument—Matter is in Hands of the Court and Cannot Be Hurried
Now—Higbee Hopeful.

Attorney E. C. Higbee announced in Uniontown today that the case of W. A. Dishop, who wants his name on the November ballot as a candidate for Select Council from the Fifth Ward, Connellville, has been appealed to the Supreme Court. Every effort will be made to have the case argued at an early date in the hope that a decision may be handed down before the election.

Mr. Higbee admitted he is awaiting a telegram which he hopes will come today fixing the date for the argument before the Supreme Court.

"The matter is in the hands of the higher court," Mr. Higbee said. "Of course we are anxious to have the matter settled as soon as possible, but it is for the court to decide when to hear the arguments."

Miller's "Reune"
in the Lockup

Jake Miller of Dunbar appeared in police court this morning but was in such haste to leave that he could hardly answer the questions asked him. Jake was doomed to disappointment, however, as he was given 48 hours. His face was streaked with blood, coming from a gash inflicted on his forehead when a portion of Meadow lane flew up and struck him. He was arrested last evening by Chief of Police George Hetzel and Officer James Francis.

Frank Miller, who gave his home as Blinn, was given 18 hours for being drunk. Mike Kilroy of McKeesport expected to be released, it having been his first offense, but the Burgess gave him the usual 18 hour sentence.

Andy Shibilisky, an old timer, was given 72 hours for being both drunk and disorderly. Joe Gotsavage got away with the police and drew 48 hours for his spree. He is a concerned foreigner who told the Burgess he "knew steel" for a living.

Barnhart Now
Leads Tom Love

The official count of the primary vote is progressing slowly at the Commissioners' office in Uniontown. The vote of Fairbairn borough was counted yesterday and through it Tom Love of Everson lost the lead he had in the unofficial count over Col. J. J. Barnhart for Poor Director on the Republican ticket.

In Fairbairn Love received but eight votes when he had been credited with 18. The change at Fairbairn will probably give the nomination to Col. Barnhart, though the nomination will not be finally decided until the official count is completed tomorrow.

Taking Testimony
in Austin Disaster

United Press Telegram.
AUSTIN, Pa., Oct. 5.—The hearing of evidence in the dam disaster inquest began today. Because of the untimely shown toward the mill officials, which has caused a fear of violence, the public was excluded from the hearing. The names of the witnesses were not made public.

After a conference with his attorneys, the mill officials declared they did not think the question of criminal responsibility would figure in the hearing. Sixty bodies have been recovered.

OPENING OF BALLOT BOX MAY
DECIDE SOMERSET JUDGESHIP.Voters List and Return Sheet Show a Discrepancy of 36
Votes Cast for Judgeship Candidates in Lower Turkeyfoot Township—Sheriff Sent After Ballot Box.

Special to The Courier.

SOMERSET, Oct. 6.—A sensation developed last evening during the official count of the judicial primary held last Saturday when the County Commissioners discovered a discrepancy of 36 votes in Lower Turkeyfoot township which may result in throwing the result of the election either way. The Burgess adherents claim the county by 17 votes and the Ruppel followers by 14 on the Republican ticket.

When Lower Turkeyfoot township was reached it was discovered that while the voters' list showed only 101 names, 140 votes were entered on the tally sheet. Even more peculiar is the fact that W. H. Ruppel and J. A. Herkey each received 70 votes. Lower Turkeyfoot, prior to the election, was conceded to Herkey on a small majority by the Ruppel campaign managers.

When the discrepancy between the voters' list and the tally sheet was discovered it threw both the Ruppel and Herkey headquarters in a panic. Even if no other discrepancies are discovered during the official count, the outcome of the Lower Turkeyfoot county may throw the nomination either way. Neither side will admit even a guess as to what will happen when the ballots are counted.

The Sheriff was directed to go after the ballot. Sheriff William H. Welmer left this morning in an automobile and is expected back about 1 o'clock this afternoon. The township borders along the Youghiogheny river, adjoining Fayette county, from Confluence to Jakesburg, and the polling place is at or near the latter village.

"Vaccination," was the principal topic for discussion last evening at the regular meeting of the Young Medical Social Club held at the home of Dr. C. W. Utz on Main street, West Side. The discussion was general and was of a very interesting nature. All members but one were present. Dr. E. C. Sherrick was a guest of the club.

Church Clerk 32 Years.
D. M. Hertzog, Esq., of Uniontown has been elected for the 32nd year, clerk of the Great Bethel Baptist church of Uniontown.

CREWS CHANGED
ON WEST PENN.New Barns Being Opened at Irwin and Oakford Car
Sheds Abandoned.

THROUGH RUNS NOT CHANGED

Crews on Main Line Will Not Be Run
Beyond Greensburg for the Present,
at Least, It is Stated—Employees
May Choose Their New Homes.

Reports that the West Penn. is to inaugurate the system of, seniority that prevails on most steam railroads, giving the oldest men in service the right to select their runs, was denied this morning by Superintendent of Transportation M. A. Coffey. The only change of this nature that is being made is one that gives crews living in Jeannette the chance to say whether they shall reside in Greensburg or Irwin, owing to the fact that the Oakford Park barns are to be abandoned. About 12 families will be affected and the West Penn. will permit these employees to take their choice. New car barns are to be opened at Irwin.

Under the present system the transportation department arranges the runs and the men work up to them in the order of their seniority of service. The oldest man on the division is not permitted to select his run, but is entitled to the best one.

Mr. Coffey stated today that the through runs will not be run beyond Greensburg for the present and if any change is made it will be some time in the future.

Slavish Boy
Hit by Train

Joe Trengoe, aged 18 years and Slavish, was struck by a D. & O. train last night and as the result suffered the loss of his left hand, and sustained a slight scalp wound. He was employed on the construction of the Western Maryland railroad and was on his way home from work when he met with the accident.

His home is at Sand Patch. He was brought to Connellsville and removed to the Cottage State hospital where it was found that his hand was so badly crushed that amputation was necessary.

Mrs. Evelyn Craig
Takes Joy Ride

Special to The Courier.
MT. PLEASANT, Oct. 6.—Singing the refrain to "Every Little Movement Has a Meaning All Its Own," Mrs. Evelyn Craig, handsomely dressed and equally hilarious, was wheeled up Main street yesterday to the lockup. Mrs. Craig was having such a brilliant time on the streets that the police interfered.

She started submissively but at the Diamond she balked and refused to continue another step. Officers Parfitt and Stoll were plainly puzzled. They blushed red rose at the thought of carrying the woman the balance of the way. That would never do, they concluded. Finally the question was solved by getting a wheelbarrow. One officer held the woman aboard, and another wheeled the barrow and the fair prisoner provided vocal music. She continued singing long after she had been placed in the lockup.

Light Frost Fell
Here During Night

Frost fell in this section during the night and early this morning traces of it will remain. Although there have been previous frosts in the mountain districts this fall, this is the first time it has been plainly noticeable in this section. The night was clear and cold and the chill air presaged the frost that followed.

The temperature yesterday remained fairly low and during the afternoon and evening the wind attained the velocity of a wild mountain storm. The temperature yesterday morning was 53 degrees and at 5 o'clock in the afternoon was only 55. This morning 54 degrees was recorded at the West Penn.

The river is gradually falling. This morning the gauge on the bridge registered 4.50 feet when Herbert Semones heaved the log, as is his custom. Last night it was 4.70 feet and 5.36 yesterday morning.

TAFT ANSWERS BRYAN;
DEFENDS ADMINISTRATION.Challenges Anyone to Cite an Instance Where the Supreme Court's Construction of Sherman Law Has Not Been Complied With.

United Press Telegram.

POCATELLO, Idaho, Oct. 6.—President Taft in his speech today made what many regarded as a reply to Bryan's attack in the Commonwealth. The President denounced "certain demagogues and publicists," and challenged the critics to produce one trust case which should be condemned and which would not be condemned under the Sherman law.

He declared his respect for "the courts which stand to their duty." "I challenge and have challenged one of these publicists to mention one case," the President said, "which should be condemned under the law, which would not be condemned under the rules of construction laid down by the Supreme Court."

"I delivered the challenge in many parts of the country, but have received no answer," President Taft declared.

"Oh, yes, column after column purporting to be a reply 'has been published, but no suggestion of a case made. The time has now come to get down to facts. Let them give a specific instance, instead of attaching the greatest court on earth, instead of charging it with enunciating a statute which Congress enacted to remedy a great evil. I am waiting to hear. What distinguishes this country from any other is the Supreme Court which stands between us on errors that may have been committed, and which would have been greatly injurious to this country. To turn upon that court and question its motives, is to lay an ax at the root of the tree of civilization."

The President concluded his speech by pleading for a disregard of the attacks of the "muckrakers."

FRANCIS SCHLINGER
CALLED BY DEATH.Former Resident of Connellsville Dies at Broad Ford.

FATHER OF JULES SCHLINGER

Came From France to Pittsburg and Then to Connellsville as Machinist in the Old Locomotive Works—Was Past 83 Years of Age.

Francis Sebastian Schlinger, aged 83 years, 10 months and 27 days, a resident of this section for a number of years, and a former Connellsville resident, died yesterday morning at 10:20 o'clock at the home of his son, Jules Schlinger, at Broad Ford. Up until two months ago Mr. Schlinger enjoyed good health. During his illness he was confined to his bed and his death was not unexpected by his relatives. Old age was the cause of his death.

Mr. Schlinger was born and reared in France. When a young man he was married in France to Miss Frances Sigler. In 1871 they came to this country and settled in Pittsburg. Later they moved to Connellsville. After residing here for a short time they went to Morgan Station and there the greater part of their married life was spent. About 14 years ago Mrs. Schlinger's death occurred. Mr. Schlinger, in France, learned the machinist trade, which occupation he followed for a number of years. While in Connellsville he was employed at the old locomotive works, which at that time were located on First street, West Side. Mr. Schlinger has lived a retired life for some time. Since the death of his wife he had made his home with his son, Jules Schlinger, and spent the latter two years of his life at Broad Ford, where his son, Jules, is proprietor of the Broad Ford house.

Mr. Schlinger was a member of the Immaculate Conception church and had a host of friends in and around Connellsville. Two sons, Jules and Emory Schlinger, survive. A brother in France, also survives. Requiem high mass will be celebrated at St. John's Church, Scottsdale, tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock. The funeral party will leave Broad Ford about 8 o'clock. Interment in the Catholic cemetery, Scottsdale.

Officer McDonald
Shoots Bad Dog

Officer Thomas McDonald yesterday afternoon executed a vicious dog on Etna street belonging to Mrs. Ada Whippley of that street. The dog was killed at the request of its owner after it had bitten her small boy. It is said that last year the dog bit the child, but nothing serious resulted from the injury.

Yesterday the dog got into a fight with another dog and killed the latter. The woman who tried to part them, McDonald had some difficulty shooting the dog, because of its audacity in dodging the bullets. The officer was forced to use both his gun and his nose before putting the animal out of misery.

CAPTAIN DARK HAD SUCCESSFUL TRIP.Lined Up Some Stars for the Coker Basketball Team.

ONLY WENT AFTER "LIVE" ONES

Hodge Roland Passed Up When Tip
Went Out His Health Was Bad.
Bill Herron Sends Contract—Basketball Hall Going Up Fast.

Captain W. J. Dark of the Coker basketball team returned yesterday afternoon from a trip through the east and reported to the management that he had secured the players he wanted after. Until their contracts are signed no announcement will be made as to their identity but Dark indicated that he is more than pleased with the outcome.

Dark brought with him the contract of J. T. Donahue, the big center who was the sensation of the Eastern league last year. He did not go after Hodge Roland because of reports that Roland is not well. "We don't want any dead ones out here this year," the Kid remarked, commenting on Roland.

Another new face on the Cokers this year will be big Bill Herron, the former Homestead guard. Herron is one of the largest men in the Central league and an exceptionally clever guard. He will greatly strengthen the backfield if called upon for steady work.

Dark stated this morning the tentative lineup of the Cokers at the start of the season will be Kummer, Beggs and Dark, forwards; Ahern or Donahue, center; Doherty and Herron, guards. In event Kummer plays, Beggs will be back at his last year's position. Dark believes all last year's regulars will be on hand but admitted that Ahern might not report.

Rapid work is being made on the construction of the new hall on the West Side and at the present rate of speed it will be in readiness before the season opens.

The Central league will hold a meeting in the near future and probably decide upon admitting a sixth club. Manager M. A. Coffey stated today he understood that East Liverpool would likely be in line.

M'Cormick Still
Bothers Officers

Efforts to reach friends or relatives of John McCormick, being held in the police station here, have failed up to noon today and Burgess J. L. Evans admits he is in a quandary as to the disposition of the case. McCormick showed marked improvement in his mental condition yesterday afternoon and last night, and the Burgess hoped he had recovered sufficiently to be discharged.

Much to the chagrin of the officers, McCormick this morning was again trembling for fear the police would attempt to place him up placement. McCormick gave his home as Philadelphia. He may be sent to Uniontown.

Cumberland Girl Burned.
CUMBERLAND, Md., Oct. 6.—(Special.)—Sue Long, aged 16, a pretty society favorite, was fatally burned today when her dress caught fire from an open grate.

WESTERN MARYLAND
WORK PROGRESSINGRapidly at Some Points and Dragging Along at Others.

MOST OF HEAVY WORK DONE

Though There Are a Number of Stretches of Considerable Distance
on Which Little Has Been Done,
Bridge Work is Well Along.

Despite the fact that wet weather has recently retarded the progress of construction work on the Western Maryland railroad between Connellsville and Cumberland a number of the sub-contractors are through with the heaviest part of their contracts. However, there is still a great amount of work to do and it will be months before the road is ready for the operation of through trains.

There are five miles of track laid from Confluence extending east to near Fort Hill. The road bed is almost sufficiently advanced to start work on the construction of the bridge spanning the Youghiogheny river and this will give, when completed, an opportunity to the track layers to work west from Confluence towards Oholyale.

East from Fort Hill, the Pinkerton tunnel is not completed nor either of the bridges spanning the Casselman river on either side and the construction riveting of these after the trucks are laid westward will also consume time. East from Pinkerton through Markleton, Casselman and other places a great deal of work will be required in dressing up the road-bed and putting it in proper condition for track laying through to Rockwood. From the latter place to McSpadden while some places may be sufficiently advanced to lay tracks there are a few stretches in a very rough condition.

The same conditions prevail at Garrett and vicinity and in some places the grading is not completed and one or more steam shovels are still at work. The big subway at Salisbury Junction is about two-thirds completed and this will require a good deal of time before it is in condition for laying of the tracks. Between this and Meyersdale there is a large cut to be made through a hill.

Work on this cut has not been commenced yet, therefore while the contractors, the J. B. Carter Construction Company, will likely rush work rapidly, under all circumstances it will require time.

Around Keystone Junction there are some stretches of track laid down and the roadbed in this vicinity and through Sand Patch is in a good condition, the tunnel at Big Savage Mountain is away behind and with quicksands and other disadvantages to contend with the work will require much time.

West from Confluence the Foley Brothers are finishing up their roadbed and there is no doubt if the weather had been favorable, their contract would have been completed before this time. Oholyale and vicinity, like Confluence, will be one of the earliest places along the line at which work will be completed.

Junk Dealers
Are Arrested

SPECIAL TO THE COURIER.
SOMERSET, Oct. 6.—Charles F. Zimmerman and Emanuel Gleason, junk dealers of Somerset were held for court at a hearing before Justice of the Peace Josiah H. The negroes stole the brass from the Pyre-Shoemaker Construction Company, the contractors making the Baltimore & Ohio improvements at this point.

It is claimed that the junk dealers made an effort to purchase the brass from the Construction company and failed. They then bought it from the negroes who had stolen it.

Thoroughly scrub and scum basin and closet with the hot suds and pour down the pipes boiling water which has been added Gold Dust in proportion of two tablespoons of Gold Dust to every gallon of water. Clean the nickel and brass fixtures in bathroom by rubbing with equal parts of whiting and Gold Dust washing powder.

Quick Relief From Stomach Troubles

Mr. R. O. Hatfield, 73 years old and a sufferer for years, is an enthusiastic friend of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey because of what it has done for him. He writes: "I have taken Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey as a medicine for over two years, and it has been a great help to me. I was a sufferer from stomach trouble for years, and Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey has done me more good than any medicine I ever used. I am never without it in the house and I cannot speak too highly of it and its merits." R. O. Hatfield, 302 S. Stricker St., Baltimore, Md.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

has to its credit more than fifty years of success without a question as to its merits as a curative agent. During this time it has brought the blessing of health to overworked men, delicate women and sickly children, who find in it the strengthening properties that are so necessary to them. It quickens and strengthens the heart action, aids digestion, restores health and vigor, makes the old feel young and keeps the young strong and vigorous. It is prescribed by doctors and is recognized as a family medicine everywhere.

CAUTION. When you take your druggist, grocer or dealer for Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, be sure you get the genuine. It is an absolutely pure medicinal malt whiskey and is sold in BOTTLES OF 12 ONLY, never in bulk. The Tenderfoot Farmer

It was one of these experimental farmers, who put green spectacles on his cow and fed her shavings. His theory was that it didn't matter what the cow ate so long as she was fed. The questions of digestion and nourishment had not entered into his calculations.

It's only a "tenderfoot" farmer that would try such an experiment with a cow. But many a farmer feeds him- self regardless of digestion and nutrition. He might almost as well eat shavings for all the good he gets out of his food. The result is that the stomach grows "weak" the action of the organs of digestion and nutrition are impaired and the man suffers the miseries of dyspepsia and the agonies of nervousness.

To strengthen the stomach, restore the activity of the organs of digestion and nutrition and brace up the nerves, use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is an unfailing remedy, and has the confidence of physicians as well as the praise of thousands healed by its use.

In the strictest sense "Golden Medical Discovery" is a temperance medicine. It contains neither intoxicants nor narcotics, and is as free from alcohol as from opium, cocaine and other dangerous drugs. All ingredients printed on its outside wrapper.

Don't let a dealer delude you for his own profit. There is no medicine for stomach, liver and blood "just as good" as "Golden Medical Discovery."

A FINE NIGHTCAP

The Best Thing in the World to Go to Bed and Sleep On.

"My wife and I find that 1 teaspoonful of Grape-Nuts and a cup of hot milk, or some cream, with it, makes the finest nightcap in the world," says an Allegheny, Pa., man. "We go to sleep as soon as we strike the bed, and slumber like babies till rising time in the morning. It is about 7 years now since we began to use Grape-Nuts food, and we always have it for breakfast and for a relishing and something for lunch. I was so sick from what the doctor called acute indigestion and brain fatigue before I began to use Grape-Nuts that I could neither eat, sleep nor work with any comfort."

"I was afflicted at the same time with the most intense pains, accompanied by a racking headache and backache, every time I tried to eat anything. Notwithstanding an unusual pressure from my professional duties I was compelled for a time to give up my work altogether."

"Then I put myself on a diet of Grape-Nuts and cream alone, with an occasional cup of Postum as a runner up, and sometimes a little dry toast. I assure you that in less than a week I felt like a new man; I had gained 15 pounds in weight, could sleep well and think well."

"The good work went on and I was soon ready to return to business, and have been hard at it, and enjoying it ever since."

"Command me at any time any one enquires as to the merits of Grape-Nuts. You will find me always ready to testify." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Read the little book "The Road to Wellville," in which there's a reason. Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

THE AUSTIN DISASTER AND ITS LESSON.

The Austin disaster has resulted in a determination on the part of Governor Tener and his administration to try to regulate to reasonable safety all impounding dams holding large bodies of water dangerous to life and property if suddenly looked.

With this end in view several charters for dams have been held over pending investigation by the State Water Supply Commission, and the Governor will at the next session of the Legislature ask that this commission be clothed with power to inspect and supervise all such dams, now or hereafter to be built, whether on navigable streams or otherwise, to the end that the people living below them shall be protected against such disasters as Johnstown and Austin.

As the Engineering News says in its current issue, "such disasters will occur, and occur with increasing frequency, we may be sure, so long as a private individual or firm or company has the right to build a dam when and where and how he or it pleases where ever land for a dam site may be purchased. It is nobody's business to prevent such dams as that at Johnstown or that at Austin from being constructed or to see that dams, once built, are so cared for as to prevent their being a menace to the valleys below them." It seems that under the present law it is possible for persons to dam any stream not declared navigable without the consent of the State authorities. This should no longer be permitted.

The Austin disaster has not yet been thoroughly investigated, but it has been developed that experts who were called upon to inspect the dam a year ago pronounced it unsafe and so reported to the paper company who owned it. If this be true, there was evident need of public inspection and public action. Private inspection did not bring private action.

NO RASCALITIES IN THE REPUBLICAN PARTY.
Our esteemed and personally appointed Official Organ of Conneltsville and the Young region thus delivers itself concerning the recent primary results:

"The Courier is wrong in supposing the News is 'patriotic' over the results of the Republican primaries. We had no interest in the family fight. The News has no little use for a Republican, from a political standpoint, that it takes a keen delight in contemplating the spectacle of two factions of them each turning the light on the rascalities of the other.

"There is a suspicion that the 'keen delight' which the News takes in Republican factionalism is confined to certain political interests, and that the late primary afforded it little ground for 'keen delight'."

However this may be, we fall to find in the primary campaign any warrant for the assertion that light has been turned upon Republican rascalities.

"Speak for yourself, John," and in the language of certain Democratic leaders speak louder.

THE UNWISDOM OF A DEMOCRATIC CONTEMPORARY.
Our usually well informed contemporary, the Johnstown Democrat, is guilty of the following statement:

"It is C. Frick has paid $1,450 an acre for several thousand acres of coal belonging to the Pittsburgh Coal Company. This land is probably assessed for taxes at less than $500 an acre, possibly at less than $200. Yet we wonder how some folks grow rich without working."

The statement is as tardy as it is devoid of truth. The transaction in many weeks old and the purchaser was not Henry Clay Frick, but the H. C. Frick Coke Company, a subsidiary United States Steel Corporation company bearing the name of Frick, but with whom management Frick has had nothing to do for a number of years past.

Concerning the assessment of this property, we are unable to say, but we do have knowledge of the fact that its operation was so profitable to the Pittsburgh Coal Company that they were more than glad to sell it to the H. C. Frick Coke Company.

The Johnstown Democrat is probably a more profitable industrial proposition than the operations of some corporations which it unreasonably and ungenerously pursues with unwarranted criticism.

The official count of the primary vote in both Fayette and Somerset counties indicated that election clerks are just as able to do their work and other people when it comes to "figgers."

The Boy Scouts are going in for hikes just like Real Soldiers.

The Frick employees are being taught first aid. The Frick company is seldom absent in any matters pertaining to mine practice and mine safety.

Love and Barnhart are still running neck-and-neck for the Republican nomination for Poor Director. The Colonel rattled around quite a bit in the campaign, but Tommy padlocked his mouth and put on his rubber. The different styles of campaigning seem to have pretty equal merit.

It's a poor day when the Klondyke can't produce a good newspaper story. This time it's a holdup, and the victim wasn't a candidate, either.

When Uniontown boys run away from home to see the wide, wide world and chase Indians, they usually stop in Conneltsville to see the sights of the city and get a glimpse of the world before moving on to the Indian territory.

The fight this fall in Somerset county will perhaps be within the Republican party. There are no Democrats worth speaking about up that way.

The United States Steel Corporation will not dissolve upon suspicion. It will have to have a better reason than that.

The Steel Corporation has no guilty conscience and is consequently not afraid of Government proceedings looking toward its dissolution.

Conneltsville's Halloween celebration promises to be safe and sensible, jolly and joyous.

Fayette county had some close primary contests, but Somerset county's judicial contest is about as close as it can get.

The Austin dam promises to damn somebody.

McKeesport is excited over Queen Alliquippa's buried treasure. McKeesport should contain itself. Queen Alliquippa had no treasure to bury. She was an old flirt. She flirted with one George Washington, and her flirtation was so long that it is a matter of history that George gave her his private flask and went on the water wagon.

Autumn seems to have arrived after a long and lingering vacation.

Conneltsville has a crazy look-up prisoner and doesn't know how to lose him.

J. Phylus has been camping in Western Pennsylvania all fall and he seems to have had his watering can with him. There's trouble coming soon. Old Phylus is waiting at the next signal block with a bundle of sticks and snow. There's going to be a pretty fight if J. P. doesn't jump the job.

The Stork is suspected of having its headquarters close to Conneltsville.

The Greensburg Tribune is authority on the buckskin rug and the order press and its comments thereon have the merit of personal knowledge. Graciously expressed, Colonel Jim Laird and Colonel Schubert, Miners' night, and a few extra and interesting chapters if they were so minded.

GOOD SIGNS.

By Isaac of Yukon.

YUKON, Oct. 6.—The letting of a contract for a $10,000 public school building in our second ward tonight was a good sign that education is regarded of more importance than a brewery. Education and a brewery are hard to find in hard at Jonette, but not here. It can never be said that any of our school directors were bartenders as once existed by the vote of the people of the above city.

Our directors are slow about advertising for a $125 per month junior. We know we can get lots of young college grads with Latin diplomas that neither they nor our directors can translate into bounties, but when it comes to securing the services of an efficient and obedient student to take care of a school house at less than $12 per day while school is in session that is a big task.

You can get a man to shovel coal and ashes in and out of a heavy furnace, 30 days a month, about 12 hours a day for $50, but can he not shovel labor as is now required in school buildings. That would be the sign of very common things.

Yvonne is said to be backed on to Yukon for drinking and church purposes, but she has drawn a line on education by erecting her own school house. Parents are willing to attend our church and hotel, but they want a separate school house for their children. They do not wish to have the district of the Danube mixed with the clatter of the Tiber.

It is a good sign to know that our board of trade is keeping at it on our second ward to see that the people are discouraged in building in the direction of West Newton. It is only a short distance to that wagon town and if it ever builds that way, our enterprise in that will be smothered.

Yvonne will have a church some of these days. It is the expectation of the people to have it rush more to a chime tower than to an apartment drawer. Chimes are the thing these days. Chimes are both ecclesiastical and orthodox. Chimes will awaken a fellow each Sunday morning at a church playing concert music, with all the journals well oiled, all dues paid in advance, a twenty-year endorsement policy on tap in the bureau drawer and a big choir to sing in the low chest. Chimes may not be heard as far as an Ethiopian campmeeting, but they bring better returns. Chimes may not make as much noise as the clatter of an old buckeye mower in a meadow but they call attention to a better grade of theology than that used by the farm hand who can't stop the clatter of the mower.

Whel, our third ward, is going to start a monthly Froebels' kindergarten weekly lotto after some of these years. The conspirators of the paper say they have enough country printing (led up in insure success. We hope the outside world will not "take a rule on us."

Children are Entitled to Underwear Comfort and Fit as Well as Grown-Ups

They get both in Athena Underwear.

Children from ages about two to six are broad in stature in comparison with height, while those from six to sixteen are usually tall and thin.

These facts have heretofore been overlooked in designing children's underwear.

Athena underwear for children is sized by ages—not numbers. Ask for "age two" for a two-year-old child, "age ten" for a ten-year-old child, and so on. This system of sizing insures a proper fit, age for age, and makes it easy for the mother to get garments that fit correctly, without many trips to the store.

For Women

No woman can ever know real comfort in knit underwear until she becomes acquainted with the perfect shaping of Athena underwear. It fits snugly to the figure—does not wrinkle under the corset. It is exquisitely trimmed. In all fabrics, weights and shapes at the price you usually pay.

COUNCIL TO CONSIDER SUBJECT

Geyer Opera House Not Sold.
High School Football Season Opens
Tomorrow—Other Notes.

Special to The Courier.

SCOTTDAL, Oct. 5.—At a well attended meeting of citizens in the Chamber of Commerce hall last evening a motion was passed that Council offer a reward of $1,000 for the arrest and conviction of the party or parties guilty of having started the fire that have done so much damage in Scottdale within the past few months.

A committee was also appointed to confer with the Council regarding ways and means of apprehending the alleged incendiary and further safeguarding the property of the town. John F. Brennan called the meeting to order and suggested that Burgess R. P. Ellis be its presiding officer and that the latter select his own secretary. Burgess Ellis called W. J. Kelly to the platform and the latter stated the object of the meeting. He said that it seemed in the minds of the citizens that the Borough should take appropriate action in the matter as much property is at risk. It was moved by Hon. J. B. Byrne and seconded by J. I. Murphy that the chairman appoint a committee of three to confer with the Council on apprehending the firebug that is believed to be at the bottom of the mischief. Burgess Ellis appointed Robert P. Percy, J. P. Brennan and J. A. Stauffer for the committee.

Former Burgess W. Newton Porter made the motion that a reward be offered, and this was passed. Council will not meet again until October 13, but a special meeting will likely be called.

It was moved by Hon. J. B. Byrne and seconded by Robert P. Percy that the citizens' meeting extend a vote of thanks to the Scottdale, Elversburg, Conneltsville and Youngwood Volunteer Fire departments for the heroic and efficient work they performed in successfully subduing the big fire in Scottdale Tuesday morning. The motion was passed with cheers, and several individuals spoke afterward of the fine work accomplished and suggested better equipment for the firemen in the way of more gun boots and coats.

After some discussion of the matter the meeting adjourned.

Buys Country Home.

Theodore C. Kenney, proprietor of the New Scottdale House, has bought from J. A. Stauffer, the former Martin Overholt property fronting on Overholt street, North Scottdale. There are about six acres of ground, beautifully sloping, and a large old fashioned brick house and a great barn. Mr. Kenney, it is said, will remodel the entire property into a summer home. The purchase price is not made public.

Preparatory Services.

Rev. J. B. Rendall, pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian church of Greensburg, preached for Rev. J. F. Hutchison, of the First Presbyterian church of Scottdale, last evening and expects to preach again for him this evening. These services are preparatory to the communion services which will be held in the First Presbyterian church on Sunday morning.

Opera House Not Sold.

William H. Geyer, one of the administrators of the estate of Mrs. Katherine Geyer, late of Scottdale, deceased, said last evening that the option held by the Consolidated Moving Picture Company of Pittsburg, on the Geyer opera house has expired. The option has not been renewed, and Mr. Geyer said that he believes the deal for the house is off.

Opens Football Season.

The Scottdale High School Athletic Association opens its football season on Saturday afternoon at Loucks field, having as their opponents the Greensburg High School reserves. The game opens at 3 o'clock and holds promise of being a warm one. Clifford Smith is coaching the Scottdale boys and says that he has some excellent material out of which he expects to evolve a winning team.

Andrew Findley's Funeral.

The funeral services over the body of Andrew Bell Findley, Conneltsman from the Second Ward, who died suddenly Monday evening, from a stroke of apoplexy, drew a great crowd of friends to the Trinity Reformed church, where the pastor Rev. W. J. Muir conducted the services yesterday afternoon. The funeral procession was a long one, and was headed by a delegation from a fraternal organization, followed by the Town Council, the Grand Army in carriages and the other friends. Burial took place in the Scottdale cemetery.

The deceased was 65 years old and was born and reared in Somerset county, the son of Jesse and Mary (Trout) Findley. Of the family there survive a brother John, of Iowa, whom Mr. Findley and his wife had just returned from visiting, the brothers not having seen each other for 15 years. Isabelle, a sister, unmarried, resides in Scottdale.

Soda crackers are extremely sensitive to moisture.

Before the advent of Uneeda Biscuit the only persons who ever tasted fresh, crisp soda crackers were the people in the bakeries.

Imagine their trip from bakery to your table; exposed to air and moisture—kept in grocers' boxes and finally in a paper bag on the shelf in your pantry. Could they be the same as they were the day they were baked?

Now that we have Uneeda Biscuit—we have perfectly baked soda crackers—perfectly kept.

No moisture can reach them—no contaminating influences can affect their flavor—their goodness is imprisoned only to be liberated by you for you when you open the package.

Always in the moisture proof package. Never sold in bulk. 5 cents a package.

NATIONAL BISCUIT

The deceased enlisted in Company F, 103rd Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry in 1867, being discharged on account of disabilities after two years service. In six months he had re-enlisted and served to the close of the war.

Mr. Findley was a carpenter for several years after that. In 1878 he was appointed a coal and iron policeman at Scottdale, serving for six years. He then took charge of the carpenter and millwright departments for the W. H. Iverson Company, holding this place 12 years. He was in similar work in Pittsburg for two years, and returning to Scottdale was employed in the pipe mill of the National Pipe & Foundry Company's works for seven years. He was in mercantile work for two years and then established a milk route.

He served in Council several terms, was Constable five years, was Deputy Sheriff under Sheriff John Guffey and arrested 10 of the "Molly McGultra Gang" at Irwin. He was commander of Col. Ellsworth Post G. A. R. and was its present quartermaster, a charter member of the R. A. and passed all the chairs, and passed all the chairs in the P. O. S. A. M.; was a member of the P. O. S. A. and Owls. He married Sarah Gross. Of the three children born them, all are dead. Mrs. Charlie May Day, William K. and Minnie. The mother died in 1873. Mr. Findley married again, the second wife being Elizabeth Rowe, who survives him. They had one child who died in infancy.

Sore Throat

If every mother could realize the danger that lurks behind every case of Sore Throat, she wouldn't rest until she had effected a cure every time a child has it. Your family physician will verify the statement that it is a positive fact that every child with sore throat is in immediate danger of contracting Diphtheria, Quinsy, Tonsillitis or Diptheria, and is not removed from that danger until the throat is cured. Think of it! Liniments or outward application of medicines do not and cannot cure the ailment, though they may offer temporary relief. Neither can you cure sore throat with a cough syrup or a cold cure. To cure, you must get at the seat of the disease, removing the cause. Nothing does this so quickly, safely and surely as TONSILINE. A single dose of TONSILINE taken upon the first appearance of sore throat may save long weeks of sickness, great expense, worry, even death. TONSILINE is the standard in the throat when you go to the drug store to get it. 25 cents and 50 cents. Hospital Size $1.00. All Druggists.

the betterment of the wage scale and working conditions.

Labor unions throughout the State of Illinois have received ballots for the referendum vote on the formation of a labor party in that State.

The bakers' union of San Francisco, Calif., has established a co-operative bakery, where French bread is baked by union workmen under union conditions.

The Missouri State Federation of Labor is working to obtain a pardon for John T. Fitzpatrick of Kansas City who killed a non-union truck driver during a strike several years ago and is serving a life sentence.

"Unholy!" repeated Darwin with a grim laugh. "The devil quotes Scripture! You will wait downstairs till I send for you. He rang the servants' bell and opened the door and called Jinks. When this officer appeared he said:

"Hicks, Mr. Emerson will wait downstairs till I have decided just what I am going to do."

"Yes, sir."

"Mr. Emerson will make no effort to leave this house."

"Yes, sir."

CHAPTER XVI. The Accomplish.

CATHERINE looked pale and tired and there was a general air of listless indifference about her as she entered the library.

"Jann told me you had arrived," she remarked, in a tone that implied that it made little difference to her whether he had or not. "You've changed your plans? I thought you were gone."

"Yes," he nodded. "I'm not going till early to-morrow." He was studying her face with narrowing eyes.

"Well, why don't you go to bed and get some rest?"

"I don't feel sleepy," he replied, shaking his head. "I'm sorry to disturb you, but—"

"—all down, Catherine," he began, courteously, waving her to a chair by the fire. She sank languidly into the seat and he leaned against the table, his eyes on her face.

"I wanted to talk to you," he went on gently. "And as you weren't asleep it doesn't matter, does it?—I'm anxious—worried! We've been getting on very badly together, Catherine—very badly! I don't know where we're drifting. It doesn't seem to have a single thought in common. That scene at the Emersons to-night was almost disgraceful."

"It was disgraceful," she interrupted bitterly. "And I said so at the time! You, a friend of Mr. Emerson, not only undertake this government case against him—but to publicly call them criminals while I am accepting their hospitality! And then to drag me away from them as if they were the worst—why, James! You met me at their house!" She paused and went on more calmly: "I'm afraid I shall never agree on that point. It has kept me awake thinking about it!"

"Go you haven't been to sleep?" he inquired, sympathetically.

"No."

"The matter troubled you?"

"Yes."

"Was it my action troubled you or the fact that your dear friends are in danger?" he pursued gently. She looked into the fire and did not reply. There was a short silence and then he went on:

"So you spent the rest of the evening and nearly all night thinking it over?"

"Yes."

"It must have been rather dull—lonely—no one to talk to," he suggested.

"I'm used to that," she replied, wearily.

"Did any one call or ring up? I was expecting a packet."

She threw him a quick, nervous glance, which he did not fail to note.

Darwin examines her.

"Oh, yes—yes," she replied, uneasily. "It was very important—so I—I put it in my room for safety."

"So you have it?"

"Yes."

"You don't know what it contained?"

She stirred restlessly in her chair. The examination was getting on her nerves.

"Just a—some letters—I think—I think," she began, hesitatingly. "I know it was very important. Shall I get it?" she offered, rising hurriedly, but he detained her with a look.

"Not yet," he answered with a touch of grimness. "What else did you do?"

"What do you mean—what else did I do?" she asked, trying to look puzzled, but succeeding only in showing a growing dread. "James, it's very late," she went on hurriedly, "and I am very sleepy and tired—and—"

"I thought you couldn't sleep?" he interrupted.

"It's so late," she protested, frowning a frown. "If you don't mind—I'd like to go to bed. I'll tell you all about it in the morning or when—when you come back from Washington."

And she moved quickly toward the door. But again he stopped her.

"What will you tell me?" he demanded, with an air of surprise.

Catherine bit her lip.

"That—that—that some one called to see you," she stammered falterly.

"Some one?"

"A—gentleman."

"Oh!—so late? Who was it?"

Catherine swallowed hard and looked about the room with hunted eyes.

"Mr. Emerson called."

"Mr. Emerson?" she said nervously.

"What did he want?"

"He—he didn't say—that is—he said something about—wanting to see you on very urgent business."

"Well, I suppose you sent word by the servant that I was out of town—and he went away?" His rapid-fire questions tumbled onto the heels of her stammering answers and gave her no chance to collect herself.

"No, I—I—saw him."

"Oh! Then it wasn't such a dull, lonely evening, after all?"

"No," she replied, in a barely audible voice. There was a moment's silence then:

"How long did he stay?" demanded her husband.

"Ah—quite some time," she replied with a pitiful attempt at careless frankness. "He—he's so worried about his father."

"So he remained quite some time—confronting his trouble to you?"

Catherine put her handkerchief to her lips and again looked wildly about the room. At last she turned to him, the embers gripped tightly in a little ball in her clenched hand.

"Why at midnight?"

"You see, James, I didn't want to tell you," she said desperately. "He asked me not to mention the fact that he—his name under rather—under such peculiar circumstances."

"What peculiar circumstances?" her husband's voice cut in.

"I promised that I wouldn't mention it to you, and—and I want to keep my promise! He managed to stammer out, looking up at him pleadingly, while her fingers nervously clutched at the folds of her gown. 'James, I'm—sorry, for Mr. Emerson's father! Can't—can't you help him?'"

"Why should he come to tell you all this at midnight?" he demanded pitilessly, ignoring her question.

"He's anxious—worried, I suppose—he didn't think—perhaps—it was so late. He didn't come to see me—he came to see you!"

"But finding I was not here," her husband added slowly, "he saw you?"

"Well—yes! I—I suppose that—that is what happened."

Darwin caught his breath, but when he spoke his voice was calm and cold—with a sub-current of menace.

"Well, I—I am sufficiently in your confidence to enable you to tell me what he said?"

"I can't tell you now."

"I told you!" she pleaded desperately. "He wants you to help his father—to spare him!"

"Oh! So he came here to-night to ask me to spare his father?"

"That was one of the reasons."

"What were the others?" he demanded abruptly, as she hesitated. There was another pause and Catherine's handkerchief went up to her lips again.

"I can't—tell you—now," she answered in low tones.

"Oh! You can't tell me?"

There was another pause while Catherine nervously twisted and untwisted her fingers. At last she walked up to him and looked bravely into his face.

"James, if a woman," she said, steadily, "a very dear friend, had asked you to—not to betray her confidence—not to tell something she didn't want me to know—and you had promised on your honor not to—would you break that promise, merely because I asked you?"

The lawyer's quick mind skillfully turned the thrust.

"I would not make such a promise," he declared, promptly.

"But if she did," she insisted, "would you break it?"

He paused for a barely perceptible moment.

"If it was my duty to tell, yes," he declared. "If you ought to know—yes!" She turned away with bowed head.

"Ah, I see," she murmured.

"Ought I to know this—this secret?" he demanded.

"Yes, I think you ought," she answered, gravely.

"Well, what is it?"

"A Stronger Tie"

"But I promised not to!"

"Oh, I ought to know, but your promise not to betray your very dear friend's confidence prevails over your speaking!"

"Yes, sir, I promised—but—Mrs. Darwin broke out, with cold fury. "It must be a very strong sense of obligation to a friend that prevents you from taking your husband into your confidence! I see that the tie that binds you to Mr. Wilbur Emerson is stronger than the tie that binds you to me!"

Catherine started toward him with an exclamation of horror.

"Oh, James! James!" she cried. "You are my husband!"

"Precisely!"

"Innocent and I were classmates. Old Mr. Emerson has been like a father to me."

"And Wilbur—what has he been to you?"

Her only reply to this brutal insinuation was a look of listless contempt.

"I'm not sure that it is my sympathy for possibly ten seconds she did not stir. When she faced him again her face was set in a calm, passionless mask.

"Perhaps you are right, James," she said. Her voice was almost dull. "When I came into this room to-night I found what I thought was a common burglar—searching among the papers on your desk. It was Mr. Wilbur Emerson. He confessed he had come to—to prevent some important communication from falling into your hands."

"Why didn't you call for help—ring for the servants?" he interrupted harshly.

A new and even more terrible suspicion had flashed into his mind.

"I did. Cook had gone to bed. I rang for Jann."

"Oh, did you? Well, let's see what Jann says about it?"

And, stepping over, he rang the bell.

CHAPTER XVII.
Compensation.

DARWIN turned to his wife again with a short, bitter laugh.

"Burglar! Ha! Another one of his accomplishments! And this is the man for whom you ask sympathy?" he sneered. "Upon my word, I think you women admire devilry!"

She fixed at him steadily.

"You don't trust me?" she asked in a low voice.

"Not where you and he are concerned," was the blunt reply.

"You don't trust me, James?"

"I hate this man, Emerson!" he cried bitterly. "I can't get it out of my mind that deep down in your heart you care—you think more of him than you do of me! You remember telling me he was your first love, I suppose?"

"I wanted you to know. I thought it was only fair to tell you."

"Well? Do you wonder that I jump at conclusions where you and he are concerned?"

"No, I wonder at nothing," she replied, and there was a world of contempt in her voice. "I only wonder that I let myself care what you say or do!"

"I didn't see Mr. Emerson?"

At that moment the servant entered and she went on quickly.

"Jann, when I rang the bell to-night—"

"Allow me," interrupted her husband firmly. "Did you answer the bell while Mr. Emerson was here, Jann?"

The girl looked uncertainly from mistress to master and back again before she replied, hesitatingly:

"Yes, sir."

"Did you see Mr. Emerson?"

"No, sir."

"Who was in the room with Mrs. Darwin?"

"I—I didn't see," stammered the maid.

"Didn't see?" frowned Darwin.

"I didn't come into the room, sir."

"Why not?" he demanded.

"I—I—she began and stopped.

"Please answer his question, Jann," said the woman, wearily from a chair by the table, leaning her head on her hand.

"Well—I—I couldn't, sir."

"Why not?" persisted Darwin, with a quick glance at his wife's bowed head.

"The door was locked, sir."

There was a moment's pause and Darwin again looked meaningfully at his wife.

"Yes—quite true—it was locked," she said, simply, "but Mr. Emerson's—"

"Did you try to open the door?" interrupted Darwin, addressing the girl again.

"Yes, sir, I knocked—but—Mrs. Darwin said it was all right—that I could go."

"She told you that it was all right—that you could go—and you went?" Eyes and voice were hard.

"Yes, sir, madam, that I—that nothing I've said."

"That's all," he interrupted harshly.

"Yes, sir." But she went on with trembling lip. "The man down stairs said I probably be called to give evidence in court. You'll pardon me, sir, but I won't do it! No, sir! From this very minute I know nothing and will horses couldn't drag a word out of me!" She broke off abruptly and ran out of the room.

Darwin turned slowly to his wife, his eyes shining with evil rage.

"And you ask me to spare?" he began, his voice low with deadly menace.

"Yes, sir," she cried, lowering above her, threateningly. "No more explanations! No more lies! The whole story is put in my hands by your own lips!"

Catherine sprang to her feet as it stung.

"My lover!" she gasped. "No! God, no! James! James, when I asked him not to take the letter that had been left for you he acted honorably!"

"Honorably?" he broke in with bitter scorn. "Why, even according to our own story, the man's a scoundrel! And what a story! A common thief comes here to steal—you make no outcry—no effort to have him arrested—no! You drink wine with him! And when your servant comes to the door and finds it locked, you tell her it's all right! That she can go! And you expect me to believe this tissue of improbability! He acted honorably, did he?"

"It's true—true!" she cried passionately. "Before God, it's true, James!"

"Spare him, eh? Spare his father?" he went on without heeding her. He sprang to the door and threw it violently open.

"Hickel!" he shouted. "Bring that fellow up here!"

"I'll get the packet! It will prove that I'm telling the truth!" She pleaded hysterically. "He won't believe me—he won't believe me!" And she ran to her room. Darwin came back to his desk and burst into a noisy laugh.

"I'll do it! I'll do it!" he cried, bringing his fist down with a crash. "By God, I will!"

Emerson came in accompanied by the two detectives. Darwin eyed him in silence for a few moments, hate flaming in his eyes.

Mr. Emerson," he said coldly, "by your own confession you entered this house to-night with the object of stealing certain correspondence addressed to me."

The young man interrupted him with a frightened glance at the two officers.

You gave me your word of honor that my confession wouldn't be used against me," he protested, hurriedly.

OLD TIME CRUELTY.

One Time When Surgery is Often Needless Torture.

Many operations for piles are simply needless torture, for when it is all over the piles come back.

The one safe way to be rid of piles for good is to use Dr. Leonard's Pile Remedy. It cures piles by doing away with the cause—poor circulation.

$1 for 21 days' treatment at A. A. Clark's and all druggists. Satisfaction guaranteed. Dr. Leonard Co., Station B, Buffalo, N. Y., Prop. Write for free booklet.

A Scene from "Billy the Kid."

THE SOISSON.

"Billy the Kid."

A good attraction is promised the patrons of the Soisson theatre Wednesday, Oct. 11. It is that brilliant tale of western life "Billy the Kid." Not in a decade has a drama of such pathos, mirth and adventure stirred the hearts of fascinated audiences. A well told tale, appealing to the young school girls' romantic ideals, it unfolds phases of life so replete with intense soul interest that the grateful man feels his innermost emotions aroused to their fullest extent. Tense scenes are relieved with bright comedy lines and for a few hours entertainment nothing can surpass this play. It will live forever. Nolan Gane who plays the handsome young hero, needs no introduction. His work is too well known and appreciated. His support is worthy of the star and the play, and no higher praise could be offered them. This is the seventh season of "Billy the Kid" and great elaboration of scenic effects is promised.

Manhattan Gaiety Girls.

Manhattan Gaiety Girls is the musical offering at the Soisson theatre Monday, Oct. 16. This attraction comes with the endorsement of the managers and public of the larger cities throughout the country. "Quality and quality" has always been the motto of the management, and with a complete cast a lively chorus who can sing and dance, who are not only expensively but tastefully costumed, the proper scenic equipment, and chief of all, the proper comedy varieties abounding in sparkling wit, laughter provoking situations, and quick, first action throughout, a performance on the whole is assured that is up to the minute and complete in the details of proper stage management.

The deceased was the daughter of John and Nancy Cunningham, well known residents, and leaves her husband and two children, John, aged nine years, and Norman, aged seven years. Campbell of Scottdale, and Miss Katherine Cunningham, at home, and one brother, Smith Cunningham, at home, and her father and mother.

BOY SCOUTS WILL "HIKE" SATURDAY.

Winter's Work to Be Taken
Up by Scoutmaster
Kilbourne.

MEET AT THE Y. M. C. A.

Scouts Will Take Dinner in the Woods and Each Man Must Prepare His Own Grub—Football Holds the Older Ones Just Now.

The Conneltsville camp of Boy Scouts will take up the winter's work beginning next Saturday. The first "hike" will be held then under the direction of Scoutmaster Charles J. Kilbourne. The boys will meet at the Y. M. C. A. building at 9 A. M. armed with their lunches. Each man must carry his own lunch, build his own fire, cook his own grub and in general rely upon himself to get over the ground.

The route has not been determined upon but Mr. Kilbourne will probably take the boys out beyond Redmore. Before the winter is over it is hoped to have considerable of this territory covered on the various marches.

The older boys will probably not report with any degree of regularity until after the football season has closed. Then it is expected to get into the work with vigor.

Both Teams are Ready for Game

Both teams are ready for the game tomorrow between Conneltsville and Mt. Pleasant High Schools. Mt. Pleasant sends word that the team is in fine trim and expects to take over the Conneltsville eleven. Head Coach Smith and Assistant Coaches Phillips and Trimble were out on the field with the local scholastics yesterday afternoon and put them through a strenuous drill. The work this afternoon will be lighter than usual in order to insure all the players being fit tomorrow.

The lineup of the two teams will probably be as follows:

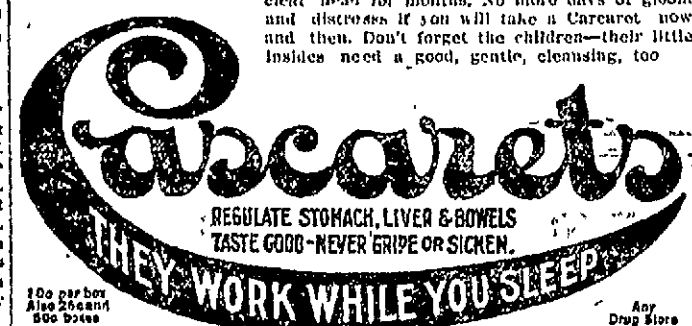

Conneltsville. Mt. Pleasant.
Adams, left end. Howard.
Lynn, left tackle. Jones.
Blafford, center. Robertson.
Herd, right guard. McLaughlin.
Monroe, right tackle. Wetzel.
McGinnick, right end. Bowen.
Moore, quarterback. Cunningham.
Port, left half. Cowan.
Jones, right half. Crum.
Bishop, fullback. Richter.
The game will be called promptly at 2:15 P. M.

SLUGGISH BOWELS CAUSE HEADACHE, DIZZINESS AND SICK, SOUR STOMACH.

No odds how bad your liver, stomach or bowels; how much your head aches, how miserable and uncomfortable you are from constipation, indigestion, biliousness and sluggish intestines—you always get the desired results with Cascarets.

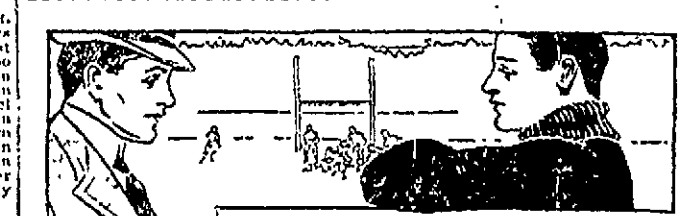

Don't let your stomach, liver and bowels make you miserable on other moments; put an end to the headache, biliousness, dizziness, nervousness, sick, sour, gassy stomach, backache and all other distress, cleanse your inside organs of all the poison and effete matter which is producing the misery.

Take a Cascaret now; don't wait until bedtime. In all the world there is no remedy like this. A 10-cent box means health, happiness and a clear head for months. No more days of gloom and distress if you will take a Cascaret now and then. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle, cleansing, too.

24,773 Square Feet Connellsville's Best and Biggest Store Wright-Metzler Company

For Home and Wardrobe This Wright-Metzler News About Things That People Need

September, the first month of fall business, has closed up its affairs. The month proved a success beyond our rosiest hopes. Sales run several thousand dollars over the highwater mark we had set. Proud? No; thoughtful. Thoughtful and thankful means being serviceable. Thoughtfully exact in meeting your wants; courteous to those whom we serve; prudent of your money. A store that is rather your agent, taking a fair commission for handling your business, than a store of the general conception that plays pranks with your confidence and overreaches for gain. Service. That won't and service shall be made better and better. The Wright-Metzler Company.

Boys' Clothing

If there's one thing in this great store that, more than any other, so thoroughly conserves a mother's outlay it's—

Stetson Hats $3.50

FOR a long, long time, the man who wanted to be economical in his clothing, had to buy suits that were "cheap" in quality as well as in price. It was with the intention of changing this that we have put in a stock of new kind of clothing.

This is to be the home of good, reliable suits, made up to our own standards of excellence, at prices within reach of the most economical. It is not a cheapening of our business, but an elevating of the inexpensive clothing trade.

Now, those suits are here, not left-overs, or old patterns, but every suit fresh, new and in fashion. Priced $12.00, $13.50, $15 and $17.50.

Men's Clothing Store—First Floor.

And for those men whom the other clothes would fail to suit, we unhesitatingly suggest, as equally economical, yet costing more money—

She—"I'll not stop crying until I get what I've set my heart on obtaining!"
He—"Well, if that's the case, you've a long, wet spell ahead of you."

Of Course a Rain Coat
Would Avail Nothing
in that instance, but there's prospects of a longer "wet spell" than we've already experienced.

Raincoats $5 up
